What Time Is It?
Beating the Moon
Sinkable Life Guards
Spiritual Gendarmerie

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1928, by Star Co.

IN NEW YORK city, on Thursday, 10,240 Americans spent five cents each to ask, "What time is it?" The telephone company had refused to answer that question, but decided to answer and charge a nickel. "The laborer is worthy of his hire."

This American indifference to five cents is a sign of prosperity, also of foolish laziness in some cases.

Dealers in clocks and watches are invited to insert in this newspaper an advertisement to this effect: "Buy our clock—or watch—and you won't need to pay a nickel for the correct time."

Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer finished in seven hours the first 890 miles of their journey from Illinois, flying 110 miles an hour. That will seem a snail's pace to future generations.

Men have already beaten the moon in its journey around the earth. The moon's trip takes a little more than 27 days. Fliers have made the trip in 23 days.

Beating the moon around the earth is one achievement. The next will be to TIE the sun in its apparent journey around the earth.

With machines flying 1000 miles an hour, gentlemen wanting a prolonged sun bath will be able to fly directly under the sun, following it around the earth for 24 hours or longer.

New York's Civil Service Commission investigated the qualities of life guards, hired by politicians to protect New York city's beaches. They were supposed to dash into the boiling surf and save the drowning.

It was found that of 163 guards, 15 couldn't swim a stroke, 18 more refused to "risk the swimming test in the water." They thought it too dangerous. In the words of Mr. Cook, of Los Angeles, imagine their embarrassment when anyone cried, "Help." There may be something in the statement that politicians are not fit to attend to any kind of business. In New York they certainly are not fit to select life guards.

In Mexico the Indians, a very large percentage of the population, are said to be "reverting to paganism, being deprived of priests."

Government restrictions and interference with religious exercises have caused "the lower classes to lose respect for the churches."

The Mexican law forbidding any but Mexicans to exercise priestly functions leaves large populations without religious guidance.

It is strange, in this country, to see two countries, as far apart as Russia and Mexico, experimenting in religious interference. The French do the same, even more drastically, after the Revolution.

But when Napoleon came in power, he re-established the church and the salaries of the priesthood, saying, "I need a spiritual gendarmerie."

Distressing news from the South tells of floods and damage to crops, affecting four states.

Fortunately, the South has developed great resources, financially, industrially and otherwise. Well-established powers of recuperation will soon eliminate the effects of a temporary setback.

When a gasoline launch exploded on North Bay, Ontario, a priest, a man and wife and their two children were thrown into the water. All but the bus band perished.

With his two little children one aged two years, one only a month old. In his arms, the bus band endeavored to swim to the shore a mile away.

But, exhausted, he was obliged

'WIFE' SAYS MOTHER OF LYON AIDED HER SUIT

Capt. Harry Lyon's mother and his present wife helped her obtain the annulment of her marriage to the navigator of the Southern Cross, according to charges voiced in San Francisco today by Mrs. Erma Meier Lyon.

The claim further complicated the position of the famous flier as he prepared to fly from Portland to Paris Hill, Me., where a great reception has been planned for him.

"If Harry Lyon's mother is responsible for the annulment of my marriage to her son, I will never forgive her," declared Mrs. Lyon.

'LONE WOLF' HELD FOR GRAND JURY IN $5000

Charged with assault and battery on 15-year-old Catherine O'Donnell of 225 Athens st., South Boston, William Norton, 25, ex-soldier, believed by the police to be the so-called Lone Wolf, in South Boston court today was held in $5000 for the grand jury.

Norton, discharged from the service three weeks ago, was arrested on Broadway, South Boston, on the identification of Miss O'Donnell last Friday morning, after he had previously appeared at her home and denied he was the man who had entered the house.

The girl had been awakened about 2 o'clock the same morning to find a man on the bed in which she and her mother, Mrs. Patrick O'Donnell, were sleeping. She screamed, awakening her mother, whose cries mingled with those of her daughter, the combined outcry sending the intruder flying through a window.

At 6 o'clock Norton called at the house, and although no one had made any charge against him, protested that he was not the intruder.

The police were notified and Sergt. Blake took Miss O'Donnell with him in a tour of the streets an hour or so later. They came on MARATHONERS DANCE 26 MILES TO HUB IN 8 HRS.

Still smiling and manifesting considerable "pep," George "Duke" Tierney, Milford ex-dancing teacher and chorus man, reached the B. A. A. clubhouse in a shower today, having danced over the marathon course from Ashland to Boston in 8 hours, 11 minutes.

With four girl partners, one of whom developed blisters, Tierney danced over the historic course, handicapped by frequent downpours and road construction at Framingham, although apparently not bothered by a kneecap he claims was broken a year ago.

At Coolidge Corner, 12½ miles from the start, Tierney reached Coolidge Corner at 1:25, having entered Beacon st. 25 minutes earlier. At Coolidge Corner, asked if he desired food, he replied: "No, wait until we get

N. Y. SOCIETY PATRONS OF NIGHT CLUBS FLEE

New York, Aug. 18 (INS)—Scared stiff by the sharpest fangs of prohibition has yet bared, numerous Park ave. fashionables who like their cocktails today were fleeing service of subpoenas that would bring them before the federal grand jury Monday.

One hundred and twenty-five subpoenas already have been served on ritzy folk from the avenue, actresses, politicians and business and professional people.

This is the first time Uncle Sam had gone after patrons of damp night clubs along Broadway.

Government men are trying to round up guests of the dirty old cabarets that were raided along the White Way the night that Governor Smith was named Democratic presidential candidate.

The first stage of that drive was completed when managers, waiters, owners and employes in the clubs were indicted.

Thieves cut a neat, rectangular hole in the show window of the Washington Jewelry Co., Bromfield and Washington sts., early today and through that aperture helped themselves to jewelry valued at nearly $1000.

LINKS "QUACKS AND SHYSTERS" WITH AUTO INSURANCE BOOST

WARNER TO GET AFTER 'CROOKS'

eph E. Warner said he would inquire into charges that collusion between doctors and lawyers, cheating insurance companies by exaggerated or fictitious claims, was in large part responsible for the proposed increases.

Mayor Walsh's statement regarding state-fund insurance was as follows:

"I am strongly in favor of the state taking over the compulsory liability insurance, but of course the state should do it at cost. There is no doubt that the state could do an excellent job of it."

Bang, who has fought for years to get Massachusetts to adopt state-handled compulsory auto insurance, said:

BANG'S STATEMENT

"The increase in rates is outrageous. The present law is wrong. The only benefit is derived by lawyers and the insurance companies, not by the public. The companies are not satisfied unless they operate on a 40 per cent commission basis, and the lawyers eat up a great deal of the money their clients do get.

"The only fair way is to establish a state fund along the lines of the Workmen's Compensation Law. The people are more apt now to see the justice of this. Lawyers would be eliminated and the tremendous overhead cost of the insurance companies cut out.

"Under the plan I devised owners of motorcycles would pay $3 a year, passenger cars $12 and trucks $25, regardless of the part of the state in which they live. Non-residents would pay the same premiums and otherwise be subject to the provisions of the law.

"In case of death in a motor accident, the heirs would get $100 for each year of age of the deceased but in no case more than $5000. In case of total incapacity, the injured would get $1 a day, if over 18 years old, and $2 a day if under that age, but in no case more than $3000.

FOR DISABILITY

"Partial disability would be paid for at the rate of $3 a day for over 18 years of age and $1 a day for younger persons.

"Such a system is the only equitable way under a compulsory insurance law. My bill was not passed because the lawyers and insurance companies fought it tooth and nail. I will file it again and the public ought to be behind it this time."

Atty.-Gen. Warner said he would act as protector to the rights of the people of the commonwealth in an investigation of the connection between "quacks," "shysters" and insurance rates.

The people of the commonwealth would have to pay millions of dollars more annually if the new rates go into effect.

Warner announced that he would confer at the earliest opportunity with Insurance Commissioner Wesley E. Monk, who proposed the new rates, and with Dr. Charles P. Stevenson, chairman of the State board of registration in medicine, who has launched a drive against quack doctors, ambulance chasers, charlatans and others who work in collusion with crooked lawyers on insurance claims.

GOODWIN POINTED WAY

The connection between ambulance-chasing doctors and auto insurance rates was originally pointed out publicly by former Registrar of Motor Vehicles Frank A. Goodwin, now a candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor, in a signed article in the Boston Evening American, August 9.

Probably no man in Massachusetts knows more than Goodwin about this matter and he disclosed in his article that he was about to clean up the situation, having practically completed an exhaustive investigation when he was removed from office.

He revealed that in many cases where claims were made against insurance companies the claimants later admitted that the only damage was property damage. They had no intention of bringing suit for personal damage, until they learned that the other driver was not insured for property damage.

Other "claimants" denied that they had given their lawyers instructions to sue.

Using such phrases as "insurance piracy," thousands of car owners today denounced the rate boost, this denunciation being especially bitter in Boston, Revere, Chelsea, Cambridge, Somerville, Everett and Winthrop, where the rates would be nearly doubled on small cars.

Resentment ran strong in Chelsea. One Chelsea citizen quoted the commissioner as having said recently:

"The new rates may be so high in Chelsea that no one in the city will be able to own an automobile."

In Boston auto men pointed out that when Col. W. D. Sohier was chairman of the old Highway Commission of Massachusetts, he had forecast that the "auto licensing power might under the compulsory act some day pass to the insurance companies."

STRONG PROTESTS

Apparently, Auto men declared, no action at the State House in many months has aroused so much discussion and resentment among motor car owners as the announcement of Commr. Monk.

Some auto men were inclined to ridicule reasons advanced for the proposal to increase rates.

They quoted insurance men themselves in the matter. They said there was reason to doubt the accuracy of figures, upon which the commissioner said he had based his proposed increase.

The commissioner was quoted as maintaining that increases were necessary because the insurance companies have "not been able to show an adequate return on profits for handling the policies under the compulsory insurance law."

ANNOUNCED AT HEARING

The commissioner made his announcement at a hearing at the State House.

The commissioner said that the figures on which the new rates would be based had been obtained from an authority working under the supervision of the State insurance department.

He said the figures were as accurate as it was humanly possible to get them.

Alfred A. Tucker, a Boston insurance man, doubted the accuracy of the figures given to the commissioner by the insurance companies.

He gave instances in which he said it would have been possible for the insurance companies to report to the commissioner that Chelsea and Revere car owners were involved in accidents when in reality the blame for the accidents would be due to owners of cars located in other communities.

He cautioned the commissioner about accepting the figures, saying that the companies could give any kind of figures they wanted to give.

Rep. Frank D. Crowley and Alderman Hugh F. McCarthy of Chelsea spoke in defense of the people of Chelsea, saying that many of the claims paid had been the result of fraudulent practices on the part of attorneys and doctors in collusion with the claimants.

Commissioner Monk agreed that such actions were reprehensible and expressed the opinion that the general agents should oversee the selection of risks and see that the agents did not give insurance to undesirables.

The commissioner pointed out that the rates are not made by him, but by the car owners. He felt that public opinion should be aroused so as to reduce the number of fraudulent cases appearing in the courts and so as to co-operate in preventing accidents.

SCHARTON IN NEW RUM WAR MOVE

Bushnell's applications for blocks, which were to have been heard Monday, are automatically held up until decision on an application for a writ of prohibition to restrain all Superior Court Judges from hearing the bills.

The application for the prohibition writ was filed by Atty. William R. Scharton shortly before the East Cambridge courthouse closed, in behalf of the owner of one house of the 19 which Bushnell seeks to close for a year.

It was made returnable before Judge Fosdick in Suffolk Superior Court next Wednesday, and if the writ is granted the cases will go at once before the Supreme Court.

Should the writ be refused, Scharton said he would appeal the decision and thus take the matter before the State's supreme judicial body.

In the meantime, Scharton's own petition for an injunction to end the police blockade will be heard Monday, unless Bushnell takes counteraction and himself petitions for a writ of prohibition to prevent this action from being heard in Superior Court.

The bootleggers and rum "joint" proprietors of Brickbottom and the Gold Coast were near the end of their resources today.

Balked in every move by the blockade of State and city police thrown about the districts a week ago Wednesday, the liquor traffickers went through their second Saturday without any of the income which a Saturday usually brings to the dispensers of forbidden drinks.

The bootlegging and speak-easy "racket" in the Somerville-Cambridge area was never on such a scale that millionaire bootleggers were produced. The law violators made a good living and spent a lot of money and for nearly two weeks now they have been without an income.

The result is that payments on expensive cars have not been made and rents—paid weekly in most cases—have not been paid, either.

Two well-known traffickers departed yesterday for Rhode Island, there to do business until the Brick Bottom blockade is withdrawn.

The blockade, on the other hand, evidently will be in force for some time. Dist.-Atty. Bushnell is determined to dry up the districts and court action, instituted by both sides, is now pending and may consume weeks.

The State, county and city forces admittedly hold the "upper hand" in this rum war and seem to be strengthening their position daily.

there," and then, taking a comb from his pocket, ran it through his hair in preparation for the finish.

He had taken no nourishment on the journey except a few drinks of water and claimed to suffer only from a slight lameness of the back, to which alcohol was applied.

It rained intermittently throughout the slightly more than 26-mile trip, and, although Tierney and the girls carried raincoats, which they occasionally donned, all five were wet.

Miss Nellie Cardarelli of Milford was Tierney's partner at the finish, but Hazel Filkins of Westboro did most of the dancing with him. At Coolidge Corner she declared she might go to a dance tonight.

FOUR GIRL PARTNERS.

The demonstration today was said to have been given because of the refusal of Harry Wiseman, organizer of the Providence to Boston Marathon race, to answer Tierney's challenge. Tierney decided to go alone over the course made famous by Clarence De Mar and other runners, and the start was made at 6 o'clock from the Marathon Inn, Ashland.

The first partner was Lucille Rockwood, 18, of Westboro, who developed blisters. Her relief, Hazel Filkins, 17, Westboro; Florence Thomassetti, 17, Framingham, and Nellie Cardarelli, 19, Milford, sister-in-law of Tierney, rode in one of two automobiles. The first car carried the music.

DANCE IN RAINCOATS.

Tierney shifted partners every half mile, hoping in that way to save the girls from discomfort. At 7:35 he drank some water, taking no other nourishment until 12:03 when he had another drink.

The dancers passed through Framingham at 7:50, reached Natick at 9 o'clock, Wellesley at 9:35, Wellesley Hills 10:25, Newton Lower Falls 10:48, and Newton Center at 12:17.

At Newton Lower Falls the dancers donned raincoats for the first time, although all were soaking wet, and a short time later the sun came out.

At that time "Duke" said he was feeling fine, although at Wellesley Hills he applied alcohol to his back which he said was beginning to get lame.

Just outside Framingham he encountered construction work and a detour. Determined to cover the regular Marathon route, Tierney pushed on into the new construction and like Young Lochinvar he "stopped not for stick and he stayed not for stone."

'IF GILDA QUITS, I WILL, TOO,' SAYS HUBBY

Berlin, Aug. 18 (INS)—Gil Boag, husband of Gilda Gray, declared today he is willing to divorce the famous shimmy dancer and film actress "without mud-slinging". If she will withdraw the "slurs and charges" made against him in the divorce suit filed in Wisconsin.

"In filing a counter-suit I'm only acting in self-defense," Boag said. "Gilda tried to slip over a fast one on me by attempting to get a secret divorce in Port Washington, Wis., charging me with cruel and inhuman conduct. If she is willing to withdraw these charges I am willing to arrange a quiet divorce in Reno or Paris. We are already separated and reconciliation is impossible."

NAMES FORMER MARRIAGE.

Boag said that he has instructed his lawyer, Milton Golden of Los Angeles, to file an annulment suit "on the basis of fraud growing out of Gilda's former marriage to Martin Gilrick in Milwaukee."

"I don't want to discuss the reasons," Boag continued, "but they are well-known in Milwaukee."

Boag declared he started the former Milwaukee cabaret dancing girl on the path to fame, risking a fortune in her behalf.

"I arranged for her to learn the shimmy," Boag said, "which was such a riot that "Reggy" Vanderbilt said he would stand in line to see it.

"I got Gilda into the Follies and also into motion pictures, which made her rich and famous, but now she's got a swelled head and wants to get rid of me in an unfair way."

TRIED TO PATCH UP

Boag said that after his marriage with Miss Gray in January, 1924, they lived happily together, pooling their earnings.

"But when she got into pictures," he said, "things began to change, and last year when I was in New York alone to attend the Dempsey-Tunney fight we became estranged. People began telling her that she was the whole show, that she didn't need me any longer, and apparently she listened to them.

"I invited he rto come to Europe to start over again. At first she agreed, but then she told me to go somewhere. It may be that a new romance has come into her life."

London, Aug. 18 (INS)—"Slanderous!" cried Gilda Gray today when informed that her husband, Gil Boag, in his suit would cite her "police records."

"All lies," Gilda declared excitedly. "Hhe's trying to carry out a threat he made months ago that if I ever tried to divorce him he would do everything possible to ruin me. He can't do it. All my friends know the real situation, and my divorce action is based on the truth.

"I'll sue him for slander," she cried.

By THOMAS FAY WALSH

The Cohasset Horse Show has had a new birth. Those of us who have memories of the old show on the track of the Henry M. Whitney estate (now a golf course) and watched the old show fade out, joyfully welcome the new one, a vigorous young-ster full of pep, thanks to Mr. Hugh Bancroft, who furnished the grounds and has had, more important still, the vis-a-tergo to start the rejuvenation.

There are splendid new stables, an outside jumping course, plenty of seating and parking capacity, in fact by a wave of his genii's wand, Mr. Bancroft has made Cohasset the big Summer show in those parts at least.

In spite of the heat and the fact that one needs a motor to reach the grounds, quite a large crowd was present.

The horse loving public means nearly everyone nowadays, and that ubiquitous creature "the average citizen" has a very clear idea of what its all about, with definite likes and dislikes.

MANY JUMPERS ENTERED

Friday there were few if any good performances, by either horses or riders. Plenty of "just riding", so many seem to think that sitting on the horses and pulling the reins is all that is necessary.

In the saddle classes few of the horses walked, the trot in general was ragged and disconnected; two broke and cantered on the wrong leads.

Now all that a saddle horse is asked for are just five things, to walk, to trot and canter, to stand and back (if the judge is qualified he will ask for backing).

Very simple you say, but how many do it? Ask yourself, will your horse do it; and if not, the fault is not with the horse, it is absolutely up to you.

Just imagine: There were 41 jumpers entered in one class, though in general, the jumping was poor, horses rushing at breakneck speed as if time counted, too fast for any collection.

The best performance was that of Mrs. Gardner Fiske, who rode side-saddle, which should be 15 per cent in her favor. Her horse was always in hand, collected and calm, with reasonable pace a workmanlike performance. By the way, the course is not a "pink tea" affair either, it calls for a good jumper and a good rider.

PICK OF STABLES

In the combination riding and driving class it was interesting to watch the extraordinary way in which some of the exhibitors held their reins when driving, if one is going to do anything, especially in public, why not do it right?

The exhibitors are in reality actors whom the public pays to see. Why not give the said public something for their money?

Friday was just a "warming-up" day, Saturday is the day. Horse shows are held to educate the public as to what are the best types of horses and the correct ways to show them, and if you are interested in learning, go to the Cohasset show on the Bancroft estate. See the Loring, Peabody, Liggett, Crowell, Bancroft and Collinson exhibits; in fact, every stable of any prominence represented.

CLEVER RIDERS THERE

Watch Mrs. Loring's Vanity and Mr. Arthur Black's Flamingo in the saddle classes. Study the riding techniques of Mr. Millard Spere, one of the most finished riders in our country.

Note the "jumping form" of young Hugh Bancroft, Crompton Smith and Danny Shea; judge the classes for yourself and see how far you agree or disagree with the judges. That is the only way to really learn.

Monday I will give you a few more of my impressions.

WHERE KING HORSE REIGNED

In its third estate wherein Chestnut Hill and Myopia have gloried for many a year. With a half-thousand entries and the South Shore heart and soul enthusiastic in its support, the annual Cohasset feature may be said to have arrived.

BRIDE-TO-BE DOES HER SHOPPING EARLY

Miss Isabel Gurnee Thorndike With Trousseau Stored Away Is Visiting at Marblehead in Company With Her Fiance, Z. Bennett Phelps; Wedding Set for Sept. 1 at Church of St. Saviour, Bar Harbor, Me.

SOME BRIDES-ELECT SHOP WISELY, WELL IN ADVANCE of the wedding day, as did Miss Isabel Gurnee Thorndike last Spring in Paris. Now the wedding finery and all the trousseau reposes in its tissue wrappings, awaiting the day; "fittings" have been relegated to yesterday's duties and Miss Thorndike, with the bridal hour a scant two weeks away, has leisure to go a-visiting. She and her intended, Z. Bennett Phelps, are to be in Marblehead over this week-end, house guests of Miss Katharine Cunningham Gray and the James C. Grays, who domicile themselves of summers at the Eastern Yacht Club.

WHEN MISS THORNDIKE AND MR. PHELPS JOIN HANDS before St. Saviour's altar in Bar Harbor, on September's first day, all the elite of that rock ribbed resort will be seated in hushed attendance. Also within the pews will be found toploffy Bostonians who make the trip to Maine specially for these super-important nuptials. Gotham, too, in its ultra circles, will be found represented when the elder daughter of the Harry Hill Thorndikes is wed with ceremonial magnificance. A large dinner is the festivity immediately to precede the churchly rites, and immediately thereafter an al fresco reception is in order. "Ambleside" is one of Bar Harbor's show places, its enormous gardens exactly the scene for an elaborate wedding reception.

WHEN A FAIR NEW YORKER WITH MISS ALICE DUNSTAN'S dash and aplomb breezes through New England's smart resorts it behooves Boston belles to look to their laurels; and to their swains, it may be added. A trim and gleaming motor is usually the Dunstan mode of conveyance, whereby Miss Alice is easily whisked from Wianno, or Hyannis, to Boston and elsewhere. Rumor hath it that a Boston youth may eventually be rewarded with this charming maiden's heart and hand. A happy eventuality, certainly, and one that would bring to the Back Bay a young matron cultivated, cosmopolitan and chic.

BUT DAME RUMOR FOR ONCE MAY BE UNRELIABLE since Miss Dunstan appeared perfectly heart whole, and fancy free beside decidedly charming at the Coffee Shop, favorite rendezvous at Hyannis for smart Cape Cod people. The train of admirers following in the wake of Miss Dunstan, like meteors after a comet, seems to indicate that the Boston youth aforementioned, glutocratic and aristocratic though he is, has not yet slipped the engagement token on his charmer's hands. It will be a brilliant alliance, if and when it occurs. Miss Dunstan is daughter to the James Dunstans, Gothamites and Long Islandites, moving in the choice circles of both places.

NORTH SHORE SOCIETY'S LABOR DAY HORSE SHOW AT the Myopia will run its usual smooth course under the direction of Messrs. Appleton, Sortwell, Pingree, Howard, Alley, Ayer, Whitman, Goodwin and Tuckerman. The brilliance of the horse show picture, given a sunny day, is synonymous with the importance of the families in the ring and in the gallery, and with the fine hunters Myopians send into competition for the "Turner Hill," the "Abbott," the "Master's Challenge," and the "Kennewick" cups. It's a glorified farmer's day, when the whole countryside turns out, and both "cottage and the castle" thrill at the spectacle.

THE CAPE PLAY HOUSE IS TO HAVE ITS "FOLLIES" AND every amateur and almost-professional from Sagamore to Provincetown, with a "specialty" to offer, is furnishing up lines and business in anticipation. Ray Long, impresario of the Dennis thespians, calls in his friend and collaborator, Stewart Baird, and together they will whip the "Follies" into such perfect shape as would need a Ziegfeld to properly appreciate. Mr. Baird has been making his brilliant way, via his "Somewhat Different" evenings, from gilded ballrooms to al fresco fetes, and to generously appreciative audiences in each.

Virginia Tolman looks like a pretty boy in her smart up to date riding togs. Her pater, F. Harold Tolman, was show chairman, and her attractive mater was hostess for al fresco luncheon

RECENTLY MR. BAIRD HAS BEEN A HOUSE GUEST AT "Sunnymead," the William E. Jones place at Wianno, and delighting a smart company of the Jones' intimates with his impersonations. Newport looms on the Baird horizon this summer, as usual, and later there is a pilgrimage from the Rhode Island social stronghold to the near and the far West, until such time as the New York season commences and further metropolitan triumphs may be added to the Baird list. Putting a professional polish on the Cape Play House Follies should be no difficult task for this popular "baritone-diseur."

SECOND GENERATION MORISONS, SPALDINGS AND MORRILLS follow maternal lead in supporting the Christopher Shop and its physically handicapped civilians. The will to serve is rampant in Miss Elizabeth Morison, Miss Marjorie Morrill and Miss Betty Spalding, who will devote Wednesday next to the Christopher Shop sale at Mrs. Eliot Spalding's in Beverly Cove. Nothing whatever of Christopher Shop affairs can progress satisfactorily, it seems, unless Mrs. Horace Morison and Mrs. Wilbur Grant are on hand to supervise—as they both will be for this coming affair. Mrs. Morison comes down from Peterborough, and Mrs. Grant from town, where she is to be found this summer such times as she is not motoring or tripping.

OLD SOL WAS ON HAND FOR COHASSET HORSE SHOW'S first day. So also was a sweet little breeze that played over the hillside amphitheater. Consequently there was thankfulness among the South Shoreites in the several generations present. Certainly the nimble-footed equinee found the August sun as mildly tempered by the aforesaid breeze, a comfortable mixture in which to cavort over the hurdles. Every hurdle of show management had been surmounted by a competent committee, with Messrs. F. Harold Tolman, Hugh Bancroft, Thomas M. James and Mrs. William B. Gagnebin as leaders.

KNOWING THE FINE POINTS OF FINE HORSEFLESH brought Miss Jessie Bancroft and Miss Lorraine Liggett into the ring in the role of judges, a role not so familiar to their hosts of friends as that of rider, wherein they both have long excelled. They substituted for Mrs. I. Tucker Burr, Jr., whose maternal duties, attending a small Burr temporarily incapacitated, took her to New Hampshire most unexpectedly, and so far away from the show ring at Cohasset and her place as judge of children's classes.

YESTERDAY MR. AND MRS. F. HAROLD TOLMAN ENTERtained at luncheon at their place in Forest ave. Al fresco luncheing amid such ideal surroundings is duplicated pleasantly today when the Hugh Bancrofts play the hosts up at Deer Hill. Friday was essentially the younger set's day. And second generation Cohasset ventured nobly over the hurdles, when hurdles it was, and after the potatoes and the musical chairs when those diversions varied the program. Today is more thoroughly devoted to the grownups and a horse show in its utmost sophistication and finish.

AUTHOR'S FIRST WIFE ATTACKS HIS MARRIAGE TO HELEN HAYES

SAYS HE IS NOT FREE TO WED

Chicago, Aug. 18 (INS)—Mrs. Carol Frink MacArthur first wife of the playwright, author and former newspaperman, who was married to Miss Helen Hayes, stage star, in New York yesterday, refused to recognize that her former husband was a free man.

"I do not want Charles MacArthur," she was quoted as saying today. "But I do want my rights. I am certain that Miss Hayes does not know that my husband is not a free man. The marriage is illegal and Mr. MacArthur is in contempt of court."

Attorneys in their arguments for MacArthur before Judge William J. Lindsay here, said the former wife was using "gold digger" methods. They pointed out she received $250 in addition to a property settlement on that after her husband had made considerable money as a playwright, she sought to have the decree set aside. MacArthur's attorney here said he felt confident the newlyweds could rest assured there would be no legal problems to confront them and that Mrs. Carol Frink MacArthur was absolutely divorced.

The attack made by the first wife was based upon a legal technicality. After Judge Harry Lewis indicated he would grant a decree, she went to New York and filed a separate maintenance suit, although the divorce was granted there.

Judge Lindsay has dismissed a bill brought by the first Mrs. MacArthur to have the divorce set aside.

FIGHTS TO KEEP HOUSE NUMBER

Can the selectmen of Watertown force William Knox of Bemis Court st. to change his house number?

Due to complaints said to have been received from mail carriers, store keepers and others, they asked Knox to put the numerals 19 on his house.

But Knox, who was the first resident of the street, 26 years ago, when it was not exactly a street at all, insists on keeping number 16.

At a meeting someone suggested that he could turn the 6 upside down and thus solve the problem but Knox declared it was no joke. The town fathers declare they will go to court about it, but that the charge will be nobody has yet discovered.

WAR ON WIFE-DESERTERS IS LAUNCHED IN REVERE

A campaign against wife deserters and non-supporters of families was launched today by John Malcolm Macauley, commissioner of public welfare of Revere, who asked Dist. Atty. Foley and Revere police to assist him.

Macauley declares the charitable fund is all gone, due to the needs of these families and he has had to ask for a supplemental appropriation of $20,000. He said he knows where many of the men are and he plans to take them back to Revere.

FEAR HUB FLIER MAY CRASH IN N. Y. LANDING

Possibility of a serious crash was foreseen today when Lieut. Walter F. Sutter, pilot of a plane in the 101st observation squadron of the 26th division, took off from Boston Airport ignorant of the fact that he had lost a tire from a landing wheel.

Sutter was flying one of seven ships of the squadron bound for Mitchel Field, Long Island, and it was feared if he landed on the wheel without the tire the machine might be wrecked.

Efforts were made to attract Lieut. Sutter's attention from the ground, but without success, and Capt. C. E. Hoke and Lieut. Wilfred Ashworth, in a faster plane took up the pursuit to warn him. Messages were also flashed to Mitchel Field by radio asking that Sutter be notified of the danger when he arrived. This can be done by taking up a wheel in another ship and holding it until so the pilot of the disabled ship can see it.

The National Guard fliers, who started for Mitchel Field for two weeks of simulated war maneuvers, were headed by Maj. Charles Wesley and included Lieut. Julian Dexter, Capt. H. G. Muther, Lieut. George Spaulding, Lieut. Stanley Lamb, Lieut. M. N. Freiter, Capt. J. G. Boutwell, Lieut. M. N. Bertlesen, Lieut. Crocker Snow and Sergt. R. D. Bradbard.

BRING ROBBER SUSPECT BACK FROM DETROIT

Frank Woods, alias Sherman, wanted here for robbery while armed, was brought back from Detroit today by Inspectors John Holmes and William Bonner. Five years ago, Woods was arrested by Holmes for participation in the armed robbery of Benjamin Cohen of Phillips st., West End, who reported the loss of $22 in cash and a check for $50.

Woods defaulted and last week was picked up in Detroit as a suspicious person, later being booked as a fugitive from justice.

FLIER IN 1500-FOOT FALL SAVED BY PARACHUTE

Selfridge Field Mich., Aug. 18 (INS)—Hurled from a plane during a barrel loop, Lieut. A. W. Redfield, a reserve pilot of Chicago, lives today to tell the tale because he recovered from the shock of unconsciousness in time to use his parachute.

Redfield was tossed from the plane at a height of 1,500 feet. The parachute was strapped to his back and from the Gulf of Mexico to the Great Lakes. He clucked cheerfully every time he related to some new found friend that his five brothers and sisters and himself were all born in different states because the circus always was on the move.

The Robinson family was noted for its elopements. John G., the founder, ran away and married. So did John F., brother of Gilbert, and "Johnny" Robinson, third of the direct line.

Gilbert made it unanimous by eloping with Emma Lake, who was a famous equestrienne with the Robinson circus.

MORE BUSINESS FOR FORD PLANT IN SOMERVILLE

Providence, Aug. 18 (AP)—Assignment of all Connecticut interests of the Fort Motor Car Company, which formerly were under the jurisdiction of the New York office, to the Somerville (Mass.) branch, was completed yesterday by Henry Ford, according to an announcement today by Dutee W. Flint, local distributor.

The announcement by Mr. Flint this morning explains the mysterious visit of Mr. Ford here Thursday. During his stay here, Mr. Ford declared he was in this part of the country looking for a "part of an engine." When some old silk weaving machines were presented to him in Willimantic, Ct., yesterday it was thought to be the solution of the mystery. Mr. Flint's statement this morning eliminates the Willimantic presentation as the real reason for the auto magnate's visit.

As the result of the consolidation of the Connecticut and Massachusetts division, Mr. Flint declared it now will be possible to dispense with the administrative force which has been maintained in Providence.

FLOATED SHIP ARRIVES AT NAVY YARD

Little damaged from having grounded on Pasque Island, off Cuttyhunk, during the thick fog of yesterday, U. S. S. Childs, flagship of the destroyer fleet in Key West Sand waters, arrived at Charlestown Navy Yard under her own power this afternoon.

Although several of her plates were sprung the destroyer was in no immediate need of dry-docking. She was floated by two auxiliaries after coast guard aid had been declined, and steamed for Boston when it was determined her leaks were not serious.

The Childs was acting as flagship of a destroyer fleet engaged in mimic warfare when the grounding occurred.

CADILLAC TO ANNOUNCE 2 NEW LINES OF CARS

The automotive industry is looking forward for the first time to simultaneous announcements within a few days by the Cadillac Motor Car Company of two complete new lines of cars—Cadillac and LaSalle—and special Fleetwood bodies on both chassis.

For the last three years, since the advent of Lawrence P. Fisher as president of the company, the Cadillac Motor Car Company has played a leading role in establishing the present trend in motor car design; and many of the innovations in beauty and body lines have permeated later developments throughout the industry. The company's production two years ago of the new traditional "Six" body types and styles and 509 color and upholstery combinations" marked a new high point in the refinement and individualizing of body designs.

NEEDLE TAKEN FROM HIS HEART; MAY RECOVER

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 18 (INS)—Morgan Downey, 29, was on his way to recovery today following a remarkable accident and an equally remarkable operation. Young Downey was rushed to a hospital when a gold-tipped needle which he swallowed in his mattress worked its way ineo his heart as he slept. Attempting to pry the needle out, he went to the street into his body. Examination at the hospital showed that subsequently the contractions of the heart had drawn the needle still further in. Dr. Timothy Donovan operated, cutting a trapdoor in the chest wall and dislodging the needle after an hour and a half of effort.

He is opposed to the loans of American money to nations that might be engaged in warlike ventures and advocates restriction of foreign loans to industrial, business and other peaceful pursuits.

'PHONE WAR' ON IN REVERE

Tax Collector Ernest Acker of Revere today asked the telephone company to discontinue his office service and rip out the instruments, because his appreciation for this purpose is gone and he has not been granted any more. His office was allowed $75 at the start of the year for telephone service and when this one goes he asked for $35 more for the rest of the year, he explained, but the city council has returned the supplementary budget to Mayor Walsh and everything is held up.

Informed of what Acker had done, Mayor John E. Walsh, declared if the action is carried out he will take steps to have Acker removed from office. The mayor declared that no one's was Acker giving the city a bad name, but he was telling an untruth, as there is still $141 in the credit of the department, plus the telephone bill for the remainder of the year would be only about $10.

The mayor said he had requested the city solicitor in regard to removing Acker.

He pointed out that it has an engine but the engine is used solely to run the mixing machinery and not for propulsion. Descacio declared that if the police took him to court he would bring the mixer along with him.

Morrow Sets U.S. Flag Waving in Mexico

Oaxaca City, Mexico, Aug. 18 (AP)—The correspondent humor is worrying in a sort of tropical Mexico when it had never been sent before, owing to the visit of Dwight W. Morrow, American ambassador.

Morrow swept through Southern Mexico as a guest of honor and as a friend of the people. He was received as no foreign representative and in fact few Mexicans have ever been received.

As he traveled across the States of Puebla and Oaxaca American flags, crude home made affairs of colored tissue paper, flew in every little Indian village. The American ambassador was cheered by swarms of people at every station.

Morrow found the name and fame of Morrow as an ambassador of good will and a friend of Mexico had been so circulated among the Mexican people that it was impossible for him to make a few days sightseeing trip in a private and personal capacity. People everywhere hearing of his coming made an unwelcoming fiesta an official capacity and as a friend.

The information had been spread around Mexico by word of mouth and newspapers that "the powerful nation to the north has sent to Mexico an ambassador who is our friend. The Yankees have become our friends."

During his twelve hours trip from Puebla, to Oaxaca every village turned out to hail the friendly ambassador of a friendly country which a few years ago they had been accustomed to call alarmingly "the Colossus of the North."

Reports were circulated by the astounding exodus of their prey, so incited many they sought have been served with papers in the midst of preparing plans out of the room.

Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant attorney general, charged with enforcing the dry laws, was seen gaily to kiss the merrymakers on both of the supper clubs.

Eighteen Are Nabbed by "Pocket Slappers"

New York, Aug. 18 (AP)—Hip pocket slapping by gimlet eyed ladies in French pool and restaurant in a series of raids by police on the Rialto has taken into custody last night Jessie, Cal Wilkes, an Oneida, chief customs inspection, announced today.

Most of the 18 paid fines at the police to avoid publicity, Connors said.

Eighteen female visitors, many of them wealthy prominent, were "slapped" as they left the resort. A part of the haul included jewelry.

The magistrate of the search was given a surprise by Cal Connors, it is said, when he found only one pocket pistol.

The reason for the women carrying pistols was explained by Connors to abolish the practice of beating daily rations of liquor to the saloon keepers by prohibition agents and hijackers. Existing treaties, he said, give the line this color.

The French line officers were not concerned over the pocket slapping. Pierre de Madrid, French consul, said he was thoroughly satisfied on leaving one of the hosts. This morning the travelling host was going through.

N. Y. 'WIFE' ACCUSES KIN OF LYON

cently quoted, she is doing me a favor by getting this scandal over. Yesterday startled the public by seeking and receiving in the Baltimore courts a divorce from her husband on the grounds of desertion. Mrs. Lyon's mother was here she had a long talk. I did not ask Mrs. Lyon's mother was here she had a long talk. I did not ask Mrs. Lyon's mother was here she had a long talk. I did not ask assistance and never received any.

"I told her at that time as I have since that because of the notoriety of her case she helped me plan take annulment action. She consulted an attorney here, and I also recommended to me that I place my annulment action in the hands of Attorney Gen. Sargent. I did this and attempted to avoid any publicity because of the notoriety of her case.

"As far as Mrs. Jane Lyon is concerned, she has known for some months that I was going to marry, while his mother sent word to her while she was here, after I had seen her, Mrs. Jane Lyon, that she would do anything Grace's mother thought best for her welfare." Mrs. Lyon said. She added that she had no intention of avoiding her or her mother's wrath against the affair.

In the meantime, waiting in Portland to start the flight to Paris Hill, Capt. Lyon denied he ever married Grace.

"I have not her and she is a typical West Coast gold-digger. I have not seen her very well. When I sailed to Australia in the Southern Cross I forgot all about her."

The flier's wife, Mrs. Jane Lyon, echoed the statement.

Paris Hill, Me., said, "Wait till our reunion is over, then we'll talk about Lyons matrimonial status."

The Effete Ephaneeny

That remarkable wife, Ephaneeny, whom Billy B. Van appears to dote on in "Sunny Days" at the Shubert, evidences marks of true greatness. Billy aptly characterizes her as "the kind of a woman that can give you the impression she is taking dinner WITH you—not FROM you."

STAGE AND SCREEN

No Vegetables, Please!

George MacKinnon, editor of "The Wisdom Box" in The Daily Advertiser, is quite fond of Hubbard squash. But, in making his vaudeville debut next week at the Keith-Albee Boston, Mr. MacKinnon wants it distinctly understood that he will resent any sudden gifts of this nature.

COPLEY BRAVELY FACES SUMMER'S RIGORS TO START ITS NEW SEASON TONIGHT

CHARMING RESTRAINT is shown in the acting of Ramon Novarro and Renee Adoree. Ramon does the acting and Renee takes care of the restraint. This quarrel is called "Forbidden Hours" (Loew's State).

DETAINED AT THE OFFICE. These two might be lawyers, working nights on an important case. Cullen Landis is occupied with the last glassful. Wheeler Oakman's the other. "Lights of New York," Olympia and Fenway.

RUTH LOCKWOOD, although you wouldn't guess it from this charming photo, is the real funny girl in "Sunny Days" at the Shubert. She can sing a song, too, and make faces like nothing you ever saw.

"CHICKEN A LA KING" is the title of this little sermon. Ford Sterling is the king and Nancy Carroll is the chicken. On display at the Keith-Albee Boston.

WHAT HAVE WE HERE? Of all people, a sheik! A little old-fashioned, we know, but old friends do return. Here are Charles Farrell and Greta Nissen in "Fazil," Metropolitan.

NEW FILM THRILL WITH EXPLORERS

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

Copyright, 1928, by Universal Service

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 17—Nearly a year ago Meriam Cooper and Ernest Schoedsack, the producers of "Grass" and "Chang," left for the British Sudan to film a picture for Jesse L. Lasky. You couldn't pry loose the story of their plans with a crowbar. I know because I tried it. Now that these intrepid film explorers have returned, the secret is out. They have made the exteriors for "The Four Feathers," Alfred W. Mason's dramatic novel. Going into the Sudan wilderness they obtained scenes never before filmed. Kipling's "Fuzzy" country was explored and the shores of the Red Sea filmed in the most desolate places imaginable, offering thrills of the same nature that made "Chang" so enjoyable.

RICHARD ARLEN has been chosen to carry on. By that I mean he plays the role of a young British officer, and certain scenes filmed here in Hollywood will be incorporated with those made in the British Sudan. This is the first time a foreign film expedition of this nature has been completed in Hollywood. Since the advent of "White Shadows of the South Seas," "Chang" and "Grass," there has been a tendency in the direction of films of this nature. Certainly proving that the public is beginning to want something more than silly romances. Needless to say, "The Four Feathers" will have sound.

CLYDE COOK seems to be doing pretty well for himself over at the Pathe Studios. You remember Clyde Cook, the funny little comedian who played in so many Warner pictures. Well, Clyde and Fred Kohler, who has been borrowed from Famous Players-Lasky, have been teamed to play in "The Spieler." Renee Adoree has also been borrowed from Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer to add a little necessary feminine appeal, and Alan Hale has the leading male role. Pretty good cast, isn't it? Hope the pictures will measure up to the cast.

MAYBE all Bess Meredyth's bad luck is over. A month ago an erring automobile ran amuck into her car, damaged said car and put Bess in the hospital. A few weeks later another car decided to sail into the same motor and again Bess narrowly escaped with her life. But she is still alive and doing well and able to sign lucrative contracts. After her work on "The Mysterious Lady" and "A Woman of Affairs," Irvin Thalberg made up his mind it would be wise to keep her in the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer family. So, yesterday, Bess took out her diamond studded pen and put pur John Hancock on the dotted line on a long-term contract.

ALL you have to do is to stand on the side lines and watch Emil Jennings to realize what a fine actor he is. The smallest detail is carefully studied and, believe me, he takes his art seriously. When he works he works, and nothing is allowed to interfere. In this present picture, "Sins of the Fathers," he plays the role of a waiter who becomes famous as New York's richest bootlegger. Famous-Players-Lasky, to carry out the idea, has built the largest still ever made. It is supposed to hold 20,000 gallons and it looks it.

INDIAN discovery, Dorothy James, is to make her debut with Tim McCoy, in "Humming Wires." What could be more appropriate for a maiden with Indian blood to play in a McCoy tale, dealing with Sioux Indians. John Wears is to direct, and the entire picture will be filmed near Glacier National Park. The little girl seems to have created favorable comment, from all accounts given at the M-G-M studios.

In New Play

SUZANNE WILLS, at the Plymouth, August 27, will relieve our curiosity anent, "Excess Baggage," brand new drama.

SOUSA HERE TOMORROW

A concert by Lieutenant-Commander Sousa and His Band has other attractions than the band. Two outstanding features are the soprano solos of Marjorie Moody and the harp playing of Winifred Bambrick, both of whom are well known to the music-lovers who attend the Sousa concerts. Miss Moody is especially remembered in this vicinity, because she sang in local churches before going on the road. Miss Bambrick is from Quebec, and has played with several New York orchestras before joining the band.

Marjorie Moody

Sousa and His Band will be heard at Symphony Hall tomorrow afternoon and evening. He will play two new marches—one, the "Golden Jubilee," in recognition of his fiftieth year as a conductor; and the other, "The Cornhuskers," dedicated to the University of Nebraska. The annual humoresque is based upon "Among My Souvenirs." The present tour of Sousa covers a period of twenty weeks.

FILM FARE FOR NEW WEEK

METROPOLITAN—Charles Farrell and Greta Nissen in "Fazil" (first run), adapted from the French play, "L' Insoumise," by Pierre Frondaie. Perfervid romance of Arabia's hot sands, and the gilded salons of Paris. Reported to be very spicy. The cast includes Mae Busch, Vadim Uraneff, Hank Mann, Tyler Brooke and John Boles. Howard Hawks directed. A William Fox picture. On stage, Frank Cambria's golf revue, "Teeing Off," with Rodemich bandshow.

LOEW'S STATE—Ramon Novarro and Renee Adoree in "Forbidden Hours" (first run), original screen story by A. P. Younger. Displaying the romance and intrigue of a modern young monarch. The cast features Dorothy Cumming, Edward Connelly, Alberta Vaughn and Roy D'Arcy. Harry Beaumont directed. A Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture. On stage, Freddie Rich and his orchestra.

NEW BOSTON—"Chicken a La King" (first run), adapted from the play, "Mr. Romeo," by Harry Gribble and Wallace Manheimer. Hilarious comedy of a butter and egg man turned loose on Broadway. Cast features Ford Sterling, Nancy Carroll, Frances Lee, George Meeker and Arthur Stone. Henry Lehrman directed. A William Fox picture. Also vaudeville, headed by George MacKinnon of the Daily Advertiser's "Wisdom Box" feature.

LOEW'S ORPHEUM—John Gilbert and Renee Adoree in "The Cossacks," adapted from Tolstoy. An exciting exhibition of love and war with the Imperial Russian rough riders.

OLYMPIA AND FENWAY—"Lights of New York" (first run), the first all-talk film show. Adapted from the old melodrama by Hugh Herbert and Murray Roth. Murder mystery story of crime and its detection on Broadway and Main Street. The cast features Helene Costello, Cullen Landis, Gladys Brockwell, Mary Carr, Wheeler Oakman, Jere Delaney and Eugene Pallette. Bryan Foy directed. A Warner Brothers' picture. Also Vitaphone acts.

MODERN AND BEACON—(Starting today) Sue Carroll in "Walking Back" (first run), adapted from the story by George Kibbe Turner. Jazz-mad youth still having its fling. Cast includes Richard Walling and Robert Edeson. Rupert Julian directed. A Pathe picture. Also Ricardo Cortez and Claire Windsor in "The Grain of Dust" (first run), adapted from the novel by David Graham Phillips. Romantic drama of a rising young man who almost married the wrong girl. George Archainbaud directed. A Tiffany-Stahl picture.

SCOLLAY—Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell in "Street Angel." The work of the co-stars in this production plus the directorial genius of young Frank Borzage makes "Street Angel" one of the year's outstanding film hits.

Lovely Bell Hop

MARION DAVIES, once again in boy's clothes, as she will appear in "Her Cardboard Lover," September 3 at Loew's State.

COPLEY WILL START OFF TONIGHT

The Copley Theater opens its new season tonight with "The Bellamy Trial," a courtroom drama.

The performance this evening will be the first on any stage of this new piece, the collaborated work of Frank Carstarphen and Frances Noyes Hart. Mr. Carstarphen was for years the chief assistant Federal District attorney of New York.

During the trial scenes many witnesses take the stand and testify. The testimony of each forms a necessary link in the broken chain of evidence. An overheard telephone conversation, a missing note, fingerprints on a lamp, all combine to excite and increase the suspense of the listener.

Fred Eric

Comedy relief is injected in the romance of a reporter with a "cold sister" working for rival newspapers.

E. E. Clive will assay the important role of the attorney for the defense, while that of the prosecutor will be in the hands of Fred Eric, a noted actor especially engaged for this production.

Others in the cast will be George Russell, Gerald Rogers, David Clyde, Barbara Boyd, Richard Whorf, Elspeth Dudgeon, Edmund George, W. E. Watts, Charles Romano, W. H. Sams, Ian Emory, Gaby Fay, Wallace Erskine, Patricia Calvert, Sydney Long and Roger Wheeler.

SHEIK SHOWS UP AGAIN AT 'MET'

By LEO GAFFNEY

Despite all cooling systems the heat found its way into the Metropolitan yesterday. The ice plant in the basement did nobly but the motion picture screen fairly sizzled.

The burning fuel is "Fazil," featuring Charles Farrell and Greta Nissen in a romantic all-hot that the silent movies" has never been surpassed in filmdom.

Turning up again like a bad penny is that infamous fellow, the Sheik of Araby. No mistaking him. There he is in the same old get-up trick moustache, a face wash of walnut stain, and a costume consisting mainly of varnished boots and several bed sheets.

Other furnishings of the desert dandy are, partially, a ton of property sand, a silk tent, boudoir furniture, a well stocked harem, a dinner coat for the Parisian sequences, and a Nordic blonde to drive him one hundred per cent silly.

Charles Farrell from down Onset way threw this out of the Cape Cod papers at all costs) has to go through with this sheik job. Greta Nissen, who in happier days used to dance as well on the stage, does the fateful blonde. And the way these two carry on together would be decidedly risque if it were not just plain funny.

It is no fault of the players. These things are all in a day's work. The producers were plainly out for a box office niffy and the order was to heap it on thick.

As a business venture "Fazil" ought to pay rich dividends. But as drama it is a whole bottle of red ink.

Don't ask us for the plot of this sandy effusion, because a subtitle during the harem scene read: "Either Elcee go or I go," and it was right there that we decided to go out for an orangeade.

Quite different entertainment is afforded by Frank Cambria's stage show. "Teeing Off," it is called, and what with some pleasant patter about golf, and the presence of the Gamby Kale girls, their associates and Gene Rodemich's band, the photoplay may be easily forgotten.

GAYETY OPENING

The Gayety Theater will start its new season of burlesque on next Saturday with "The Girls from Happyland" revue.

NEW LEAD IN 'SUNNY DAYS'

Mildred Keats, who will take over the leading role in "Sunny Days" Monday night at the Shubert, is no stranger to Boston; for it was here several seasons ago that she made her debut as a premiere dancer in "Hitchey Koo." Since, she has appeared in "Kitty's Kisses," "Pitter Patter," and as leading woman in "Battling Butler" and for Al Jolson through the season of "Bombo."

Mildred Keats

Miss Keats, Incidentally, was first selected by Hassard Short for the part until now played by Jeanette MacDonald, but, through some delay in production, making the exact date of presentation uncertain, she accepted a long vaudeville contract. Shortly after, when Short decided on a resumption of production activities, Miss Keats was not available; and so Miss MacDonald was cast for the part.

Miss Keats has just become free of her vaudeville engagements and Miss MacDonald has been waiting to begin rehearsals in a new musical show soon to make its bow in New York.

Dancing on Mayflower Attracts the Throngs

One of Boston's most popular summertime attractions is the steamer Mayflower on which patrons may dance while at the same time enjoying a moonlight sail over Boston Harbor.

The Mayflower makes this excursion every week day evening with the exception of Mondays. It is furnished with a buffet lunch and spacious decks where one may rest or promenade.

RUM IS RESPONSIBLE

"GIVE UP DRINKING" is Claire Windsor's earnest entreaty to Ricardo Cortez. "Take the Keeley cure," she advises. "It won't be long." This filum in "The Grain of Dust" at the Modern and Beacon.

THE GREAT NECKERS

YOUNG AMERICA, they say, must have its fling. In "The Great Necker" at the Wilbur, the flings are flung high, wide and handsome. Phillip Holmes and Irene Purcell do the interpreting.

TAKES HIS MEDICINE

FOR THAT TIRED FEELING, Natalie Kingston proffers Charles Farrell a mug of spirits in "Street Angel" at the Scollay. Mr. Farrell is apparently aware that it is only studio cold tea. Hence his apathy.

WARNERS WILL BOOST 'TALKIES' IN CAMPAIGN

The phenomenal success of the talking film device, Vitaphone, has induced Warner Brothers, the producers, to launch a national newspaper advertising campaign to tell the public something more about Vitaphone.

Sometime next month a series of advertisements will appear in the larger dailies to exhibit to the theater patron the aims and purposes of talking pictures.

"It is our belief that over-statement hurts our business," said H. M. Warner. "When Vitaphone was first presented to the public we preferred to undercate, rather than overrate, its possibilities. We wanted an honest judgment on the innovation. In securing knowledge of that judgment the daily newspapers played an important part.

"This is not our experienced alone," said Mr. Warner, "but that of all men engaged in purveying amusements. Advertising Vitaphone, for instance, is an appeal to the general public. It designs to inform that public just what Vitaphone is, its accomplishments in synchronized speech and music, and about the productions we have in preparation, one of the latest being the picture in which all the characters speak throughout the play."

GILBERT MAKES FRIENDS WITH COSSACK RIDERS

John Gilbert

In "The Cossacks" at Loew's State, John Gilbert plays a Cossack soldier, riding with the band of fighters from Russia. "The Cossacks," says Gilbert, "are the finest body of men it has ever been my privilege to meet. I rode with them, and they received me as a brother. I learned the Cossack games, went to their parties, and formed friendships I'll never forget.

"They are the greatest of equestrianists. Exiled from their own country by the revolution, they are in strange places, but happy as long as they have work and their horses. There is a strange romance to them—every man a veteran, most of them wounded fighting for the Czar. They take their fun like children, then work like demons. I think an army of them could whip the world."

STUDIO LISTENS IN ON MAKING OF SOUND FILM

While "Lights of New York," the new multiple reel all-talking picture which opens next week at the Fenway and Olympia, was being made it was necessary for technicians in as many as 10 different rooms to keep in constant communication with each other.

These rooms were scattered at various places over the 13-acre lot, but were kept in touch with each other by a special telephone system and a system of lights, like red and burners. While the "take" was being made, a reproduction of the sound was heard in three different rooms.

Cameramen shut up in their soundproof booths heard it by means of headphones as did the executive in his office. The whole system which preserves the image and sound in a perfectly synchronized state is connected electrically.

18 CIVIC CLUBS WILL WITNESS PAPER FILM

The officials of eight more leading civic organizations have accepted invitations of the Boston Evening American to witness "The Making of a Newspaper," a two-reel film, at Loew's State theater next week. This makes a total of 18 organizations that have accepted invitations of the management of this newspaper to be present at Loew's State theater next week as special guests.

The most recent acceptances come from Boston College of Business Administration, Y. M. H. A. Club, Crescent-Phalon Post, American Legion, Massachusetts League of Women Voters, Boston Y. W. C. A., International Institute of Y. W. C. A., which includes girls from all nations, Square and Compass Club, and The Durant, Inc.

OTHER GUESTS

Other organizations whose members will be special guests are Boston Rotary Club, Boston City Club, Women's City Club of Boston, Social City Club of Boston, Boston Home and School Association, Boy Scouts of America, Camp Fire Girls, Boston Swimming Association, Republican City Committee of Boston, Women's Division and Women's Republican Club of Massachusetts.

The officers of these organizations are enthusiastic over the opportunity presented their members to see this instructive film which shows, as its name indicates, just how a newspaper is put together. The resources of 28 Hearst newspaper plants throughout the United States, whose readers mount to more than 20,000,000, were used in making the picture. It runs 21 minutes.

BACKGROUND OF PICTURE

The sinking of the British freight steamship Antinoe and the epic rescue of the crew by the crew of the United States steamship President Roosevelt forms the background of the picture. Actual movies of this thrilling rescue, made by International Newsreel catch the spectator's attention at the beginning of the picture. He is then carried through a newspaper plant from the "flash" on the story of the rescue until the finished product is in his hands on the street, hot from the presses.

Interesting "shots" of the editorial department showing the writing of the story, editing copy, heading, writing, etc., are shown. Then the typed story is followed to the composing room where it is set up in the most modern linotype machines that do about everything but talk.

From there the spectactor is carried through the art department, where the pictures of the rescue received by wireless, are whipped into shape for the making of "cuts" in the engraving room.

SEE PAPER MADE UP

The picture carries fans along to the stereotype room where plates for the presses are made from molten lead. Then the spectator is conveyed via the picture into the press room, where he see thousands of papers printed in a few minutes. The delivery and mail rooms are next shown.

The picture is absorbing from beginning to end and of highly educational value. No one can miss it without being filled with wonder.

Closeups of William Randolph Hearst, owner of the largest chain of newspapers in the world, of Arthur Brisbane, whose column "Today" is read by more persons daily than any other feature in any publication, and of the artists who create the "funnies" for our entertainment are included in the picture.

IT ALL GOES INTO "THE MAKING OF A NEWSPAPER"

Bowdoin Square

The Duncan sisters in "Topsy and Eva" is the film feature for next week at the Bowdoin Square. William Haines in "Telling the World" will also be shown, and a bill of vaudeville.

NOVEL ENTERTAINMENT ON ROSE STANDISH

For a novel evening's entertainment the Rose Standish, concert steamer owned and operated by the Nantasket line, is proving to be popular.

Every riday and Saturday evening the Rose Standish cruises over Boston harbor for a moonlight sail with a jazz orchestra, the 70-piece Hingham Community Band and vaudeville.

The boat has a large floor and dancing may be enjoyed for fully four hours, for the orchestra plays before the steamer leaves and after it returns to Boston.

FOLKS 20,000 YEARS AGO LIKE THOSE TODAY

Pekin, Aug. 18 (AP)—Men armed with weapons of stone, and women adorned with the spoils of the hunt lived 20,000 years ago in what is now the gobi desert, relics discovered by the central Asiatic expedition, led by Dr. Roy Chapman Andrews, indicate.

Thousands of relics showed the numerous phases of the stone age culture, in which these dune dwellers had attained. Traces of human beings dating back 15,000 years have been found previously in the same district.

"These people were wonderfully clever," Dr. Andrews said. "They lived apparently in a transition period between the old and new stone ages. The domesticable was admired with people and they hunted and fished in the lakes and streams and built shelters on the dunes of skins, bark and timbers.

HOOVER TOPS GOVERNOR SMITH IN NATIONAL STRAW BALLOT

POLL IN N.E. SHOWS AL LEADER

With several hundred votes in his favor, Governor Smith maintained his lead today over Herbert Hoover, his Republican opponent, in New England, where the Boston Evening American is conducting a straw vote in connection with the national canvass being made by the Hearst newspapers.

Hoover leads in the national poll. The three northern New England states, Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont, give Hoover the edge with plenty of votes to spare, but Boston and the rest of Massachusetts, thus far tabulated, have given Smith such a huge margin, that Hoover is having a hard time to catch up with the New York governor.

Governor Smith owes a lot to Boston for standing so loyally behind him. For without this city, Smith would experience some trouble in maintaining his present lead.

It is also true that Smith has the poll outside of Boston but Hoover, as the votes of the small towns are being received and tabulated, shows a decided gain.

SMITH LEADS

The textile cities have as yet to be tabulated. These centers may change the complexion of the entire State. The large cities, as a rule, have favored the Smith bandwagon.

The way in which the men and women of New England have disregarded the usual rule of voting as did their forefathers, is remarkable.

All kinds of switching of votes has been noted by the official tabulators. One block of 50 votes cast in Rhode Island, for instance, shows that 30 of the straw balloters switched from Coolidge in 1924 to Smith this year, and of that block four were women.

In several wards tabulated to Boston by blocks of fifty votes each, the ballots show a total switch from Coolidge to Smith of 530 votes, 64 women were registered as voting for Coolidge, but are getting on the Democratic ballot this year.

Hoover, according to the straw ballot, is far behind the Coolidge strength of 1924, while Smith shows amazing vote-getting ability over where the Republican candidate is supposed to have things his own way.

WOMEN FOR HOOVER

The women's vote in Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont, is being sung for Hoover, but on the other side of the fence, in a clear gain for Smith of plenty of women's votes that Davis was unable to find four years ago.

Davis, in some of the New England towns, received anywhere from one out of five votes to Smith this year is running twice as well in the same localities.

Each day the tabulations show that scores of men and women will this year cast their first vote for a President. In Boston, of course, the greater number of these new voters have already picked Smith.

While Hoover holds the lead in northern New England, Smith controls in southern New England States. Smith has made gains in Hoover's territory that is not enough to cause any uneasiness among the Hoover figures.

ST. PAUL'S TO HAVE MUSICAL PROGRAM

Walter Smith, solo trumpeter of the Boston Festival Orchestra, will play the trumpet obligato in "Unfold Ye Portals" from Gounod's "Redemption" which will be sung by the summer chorus in St. Paul's Cathedral Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. Gounod's beautiful "Blessed Is He" will also be sung. This service will be broadcast by WNAC.

Dr. Edward T. Sullivan will preach at the morning service on "How Souls are Made White." In the evening at 7:30 his subject will be "The Golden Image." The vesper service on the porch of the Cathedral which begins shortly after 7 o'clock, is led by the vested chorus of 40 voices and trumpet music.

PORTION OF NEW NORTH STATION OPENS MONDAY

The central portion of the new North Station, including the beautiful waiting-room and concourse, will be opened to the public Monday after seven months of record-breaking achievement in construction by the Boston & Maine railroad.

The formal dedication will take place in the fall, when the entire station is completed, as well as the sporting "garden" atop it. In the meantime the structure will gradually assume its permanent form to meet the needs of 25,000,000 commuters and travelers yearly.

The waiting-room, lined in marble and surmounted by lunettes, is the dominant interior feature, extending the full height of the station, 274 feet long, and flanked at either end by entrance passageways. There is also a middle passageway and each passage is 40 feet wide.

If seats 480 persons, more than the Grand Central terminal in New York, and it is equipped with the most modern of conveniences for the traveling public.

The great concourse, also marble lined, is 400 feet long and 84 feet wide and afford free movement for the daily rush hour throngs. Easy access to elevated trains is provided.

Late Sunday night workmen will remove the high board walls which, with girders, cross beams, platforms and lesser staglings, have formed a shroud, within which the new waiting room and auxiliary facilities were taking on impressive form. Other units of the new station will be thrown open from time to time and President Hannaer expects the entire new station to the public heads to be ready by November 1.

What has been accomplished thus far, in record-breaking time, according to construction engineers, and what will be accomplished in the future, is without interruption of passenger traffic, although 90,000 persons and 300 trains go in and out of the terminal each day.

The main station building extends from Haverhill st., a distance of 435 feet along Causeway st. to Nashua st., leaving 118 feet of frontage at the corner for restaurant, taxi-stand and proposed hotel.

The facade, which will be in buff brick with stone trim, is as yet unfinished and the steel skeleton of the upper section will also be seen. The sporting arena, to seat 18,000, is due to be finished November 15. The North Station Industrial Building at Causeway and Beverly sts., is also under construction. Construction work on the Canal st. bridge throughfare along Nashua st. connecting with the Northern Artery will complete the setting.

Rumors Prove Lindy Is Biggest "News" Figure

This was vividly demonstrated to newspapers throughout the country the last few days when successive rumors swept the country that he had been killed or had met with serious injury.

though a year has passed since Col. Charles A. Lindbergh gained world-wide fame by his flight to Paris he continues today to be possibly the biggest single figure in news.

Newspaper offices from the Pacific to the Atlantic coast and in Cuba were deluged with telephone calls from persons seeking confirmation of the reports. Col. Lindbergh, meanwhile, was in San Francisco on business and yesterday, when the rumors were at their height, he had not even left the ground.

Mayor Quinn of Cambridge today signed a permit allowing the Boston & Maine Transportation Co. to operate its buses through Cambridge on the proposed Boston-Hillerica motor coach line. The permit was approved by the city council several days ago.

SMITH'S GUNS LOADED FOR 2 ATTACKERS

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 18 (INS)—In a statement to make public within forty eight hours, Gov. Smith is expected to denounce Dr. John Roach Straton, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, New York, and William Allen White, Kansas editor, for picturing him in their bitter attacks as a deadly foe of moral progress and a friend of the saloon, gambling and vice.

Almost on the eve of the ceremony at which he will be formally notified of the presidential nomination, the governor will tell the voters that his two major critics, Straton and White, have got things completely changed about, and that he is a friend and not a foe of moral progress.

Smith, according to friends, will point to a number of laws he has approved during his eight years as governor, to prove he is a friend of moral progress.

He will challenge his critics, to point to one law that has been placed on the statute books while he has been governor which by any stretch of imagination could prove charges they made in attacking him.

Because he expects charges similar to those of Straton and White will be hurled at him in the coming campaign, the Governor, his friends assert, welcomes this opportunity to throw down the gage of battle to his critics.

The Governor will tell White that he is proud and not ashamed of his legislative record and that he always voted in the Assembly according to the dictates of his conscience.

HOOVER STOPS IN THE GRAND CANYON

Hoover Train, en route to Grand Canyon, Ariz., Aug. 18 (AP)—Reluctantly leaving the state of his adoption, Herbert Hoover today was heading for his birthplace at West Branch, Ia., where he will spend a day and night amid boyhood scenes before beginning in earnest the task the Republican party has set for him.

His last day in California gave him his first real taste of political campaigning and it appeared not only that he liked it, but also that he would surprise even his closest friends as to his ability as a stump speaker.

Booked for only a single speech, that at Los Angeles, the presidential candidate was called upon on four other occasions and he responded.

Swinging into Arizona early today, Hoover had an engagement to meet Republican county chairmen at Williams and to confer with them at Grand Canyon, where his party will spend the afternoon and evening, leaving at midnight tonight for Albuquerque, N. M.

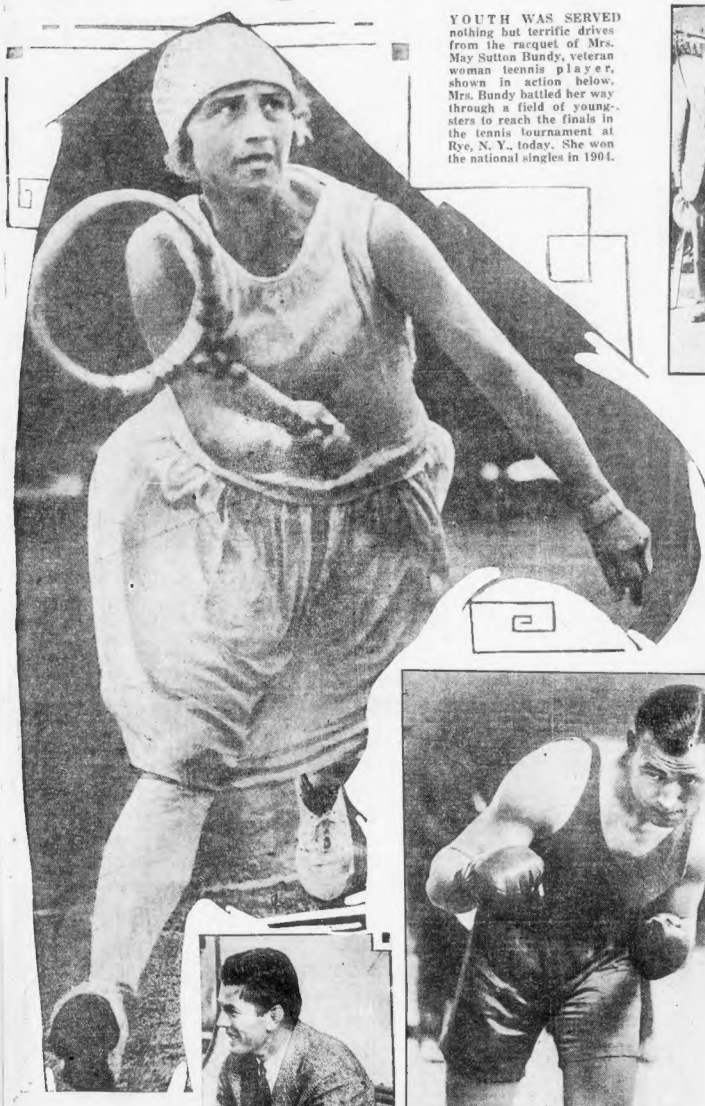
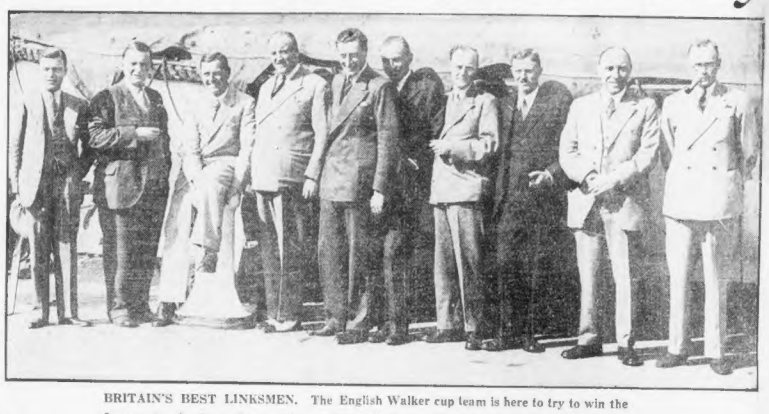
BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN, SATURDAY, AUGUST 18, 1928

Cambridge Turns Out For Bill Barrett Day



YOUTH WAS SERVED nothing but terrific drives from the racquet of Mrs. May Sutton Bundy, veteran woman teennis player, shown in action below. Mrs. Bundy battled her way through a field of youngsters to reach the finals in the tennis tournament at Rye, N. Y., today. She won the national singles in 1904.



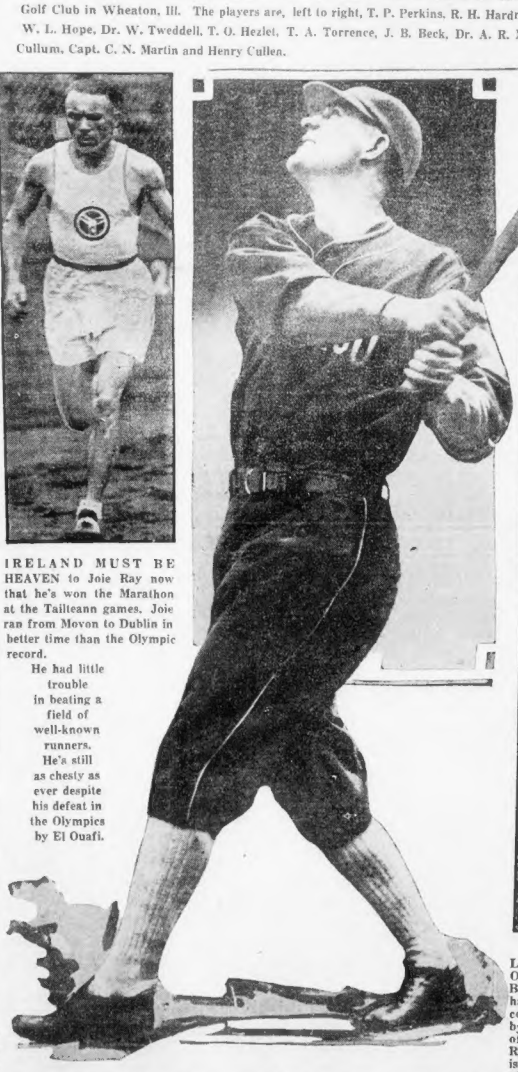
BRITAIN'S BEST LINKSMEN. The English Walker cup team is here to try to win the famous trophy from the American golfers. The tournament will be held at the Chicago Golf Club in Wheaton, Ill. The players are, left to right, T. P. Perkins, R. H. Hardman, W. L. Hope, Dr. W. Tweddell, T. O. Hezlet, T. A. Torrence, J. B. Beck, Dr. A. R. MacCullum, Capt. C. N. Martin and Henry Cullen.

GENE AND HIS TWO PET DOGS. In boxing shoes they carried hi mto a world's title and then pedalled away at Chicago to save the crown from Dempsey. In shiny patent-leathers they helped Gene dance his way into society. Now, in the heavy brogues shown above, they'll aid him on his walking trip o'er the rocky roads of England with Thornton Wilder.

BAD NEWS FOR BIG BOY. Jack Sharkey is talking again and says he will K. O. Peterson. If the past is any criterion they'll be sweeping Peterson off the canvas at Fenway Park next Thursday night. Sharkey is in fine shape and is starting his campaign to gain Tunney's vacated throne.

IRELAND MUST BE HEAVEN to Joie Ray now that he's won the Marathon at the Tailteann games. Joie ran from Movon to Dublin in better time than the Olympic record.

He had little trouble in beating a field of well-known runners. He's still as chesty as ever despite his defeat in the Olympics by El Ouafi.



HIS DAY. Bill Barrett, clouting outfielder of the Chicago White Sox, who hails from Cambridge, will be tendered a reception before the game at Fenway Park today. Barrett, a product of Cam bridge sandlots, is a popular idol of the University City ball fans.

LET THE BELLS RING OUT. For one of their clan, Berkley Bell, wee Californian, has proved himself one of the country's best tennis players by beating Francis T. Hunter of the Davis cup team at the Rye (N. Y.) tournament. Bell is one of the most promising of the younger stars. He has been showing well in all the tournaments along the Eastern Coast this Summer.

Gorton-Sanborn vs. Estabrook-Sargent in Essex Final

FAVORITES IN TITLE MATCH

First Time in Two Years That Low Handicap Teams Fight for Four-Ball Crown

Essex County Club Finals

R. B. Gorton and Paul Sanborn vs. W. B. Estabrook and F. Sargent.

By BILL GRIMES

ESSEX COUNTY CLUB, Aug. 18—For the first time in two years low handicap teams are playing the finals of the championship flight in the annual Essex County Club four-ball invitation this afternoon.

Ray Gorton of Brae-Burn and Paul Sanborn of Unicorn will battle R. W. Estabrook and Fritz Sargent in an 18-hole match. In the semi-finals this morning Gorton and Sanborn trimmed J. V. H. Bright and J. M. Martin, 6 and 5, while Estabrook and Sargent stumbled over 2 and 2 defeat to L. T. Mann and J. C. Owen.

Gorton and Sanborn turned in their best round of the tournament for the seven under fours and their match ended on the 14th green. Gorton was in rare form and, although Sanborn came in time and again when needed, the issue for the one sided victory goes to the Brae-Burnite.

It was a different story in the Estabrook-Sargent vs. Mann-Owen match. Mann and Owen had a handicap of six strokes, three each way, which they used to an advantage during the outward round, winning the first with a stroke and halving the third and fifth.

The story of this match is centered around the 11th hole. Owen and Mann were two up at this point and the former was the only one on the green from the 12th. However, instead of going to three, Owen took three putts and the best he could get was a half, as Estabrook came through with a four.

Owen's three putts upset him and his partner and they lost the next five consecutive holes and the match 2 to 2.

Two down going to the 12th, Estabrook and Sargent came through with par fours although neither was on the green in two. Owen and Mann both missed their chip shots, taking five. Estabrook and Sargent squared the match at the 13th, for Owen went out of bounds off the tee and Mann missed up his second and third shots. Estabrook was on with his second and Sargent was in the trap between the green from where he exploded to within two feet of the cup and had the short putt to Estabrooker. Estabrook got a tough break going to the short 14th when his tee shot hit on the down slope of a mound on the green and bounced over into the rough. Sargent was in a fine lie on the down hole high to the right and Mann just on the edge of the green.

After Owen had missed his chip and shot, Mann put it dead for a three and then Estabrook made one of the finest shots of the round, running his ball up the bank onto the green to within a foot of the cup.

With Estabrook down in three for a halve, Fritz Sargent calmed down for a deuce to put his team out in front for the first time. Fours by Estabrook on the 17th and 18th ended the match as the best Owen and Mann could get were sixes.

GORTON and Sanborn started off at a terrific pace against Bright and Martin and were four up on the No ten three under four net. After that both teams fell down, Bright and Martin came through with a birdie three on the 4th for their first win and, in the next seven holes to the turn were halved. Gorton and Sanborn, with a better ball on 32 net, were three up as they started the homeward round.

Although Gorton had been doing more than his share of the good work he took complete charge of the situation on the 10th and Gorton's second shot at the tenth was 10 feet from the cup and he just missed a three. He came through with a three at the eleventh and was down in one putt for a four at the 12th after his drive short with his second.

Goslin and Hornsby Lead in Batting

Chicago, Aug. 18 (AP)—Hotter and hotter grow the races for batting and pitching honors in the American League.

While unofficial averages including Wednesday's games show Goose Goslin of Washington still leading in hitting and Waite Hoyt of the Yankees having the best pitching record so far this season, each day seems to tighten up the struggles for the two most important individual honors in the circuit.

Last week Goslin had but one close rival, Al Simmons of the Philadelphia Athletics. But while they were slumping during the next week Lou Gehrig of the Yankees inked his average in 12 games and now is only nine points from the "Goose," whose average is .340. Simmons slipped even more than Goslin, but was still second with a mark of .374.

Other leading hitters and their averages:

Manush, St. Louis, .357; Lazzeri, New York, .354; K. Miller, Philadelphia, .336; J. Sewell, Cleveland, .333; Moyer, Boston, .331; Ruth, New York, .329.

Hoyt added another victory to to his string during the week, bringing his record to 14 won and three lost. General Alvin Crowder of St. Louis also added a win, and he now has credit for 12 victories and four defeats. All the other leaders also added to their record with a victory. They are Quinn, Philadelphia, 13 won and five lost; Pennock, New York, and Grove, Philadelphia, 11 won and two lost.

The Athletics finally caught up with the Yanks in team batting, adding a point during the week, which their rivals kept their .300 level. St. Louis and Boston were still tied for fielding honors with an average of .972.

Other leaders: Double plays, Cleveland, 141; most runs, Yankees, 686; fewest opponent runs, Philadelphia, 462; individual runs, Ruth, 122; stolen bases, Mostil, Chicago, 21; doubles, Fingerhut, Boston, 27; triples, Combs, New York, 13, and home runs, Ruth, of course, with 46.

Duray Favored to Win Altoona Race

Altoona, Pa., Aug. 18 (AP)—Six seven novercil creations of speed revolved around fuel tuning on this morning preparatory to the 200-mile national speedway automobile race here this afternoon. Each driver had qualified his steed at better than 125 miles per hour.

Leon Duray, France, led the qualifiers with 138 miles per hour and occupied the pole position. He was the favorite to win the race, with Ray Keech, Philadelphian who holds the world's automobile speed record of 207 miles per hour, second choice.

New York, Aug. 18 (AP)—Rogers Hornsby is three points lower in the batting table of the National League than he was last week, but Paul Waner is nine points lower, apparently unable to rise. A spurt at this point by Hornsby would mean practically the end of the 1928 race with the former champion recrowned after an absence of two years from the top.

The Boston manager is hitting an even .390 in 94 games against .361 for Paul Waner in 108, according to averages issued today and including games of last Wednesday. Klein, the Philadelphia recruit from Ft. Wayne of the Central League, is in between Hornsby and the older Waner, but has played in only fifteen engagements. His average is .379, but he will be unable to play in enough games this y ear to qualify as a regular.

Of the various crowns he held undisputed through many weeks, Jim Bottomley of St. Louis has only one left—and a half interest in two others. He still leads in runs batted in with 100, and is tied with Del Bissonette of Brooklyn in triples with 13, and with Paul Waner in runs scored with 96.

Sunny Jim also remains second to Hack Wilson in the race for the National League home run crown. The Chicago outfielder has 27 against 28 for Bottomley, with Hurst of Philadelphia, Bissonette of Brooklyn and Haley of St. Louis tied for third place, each with 24.

Paul Waner is tied with Taylor Douthit of St. Louis in total hits, 167, but the Pittsburgh sharpshooter has a clear lead over the field in doubles, of which he has 36.

Following Hornsby and Paul Waner in the batting table are: Lindstrom, New York, .345; Frisch, Boston, .351; Grantham, Pittsburgh, .344; Bottomley, St. Louis, .341; Rodriguez, St. Louis, .341; Hogan, New York, .339; Haley, St. Louis, .336, and Orr, New York, .332.

Larry Benton, needless to say, leads the pitchers. The New York star added his 15th victory and his 12th complete game at the expense of the Cubs on Tuesday, running his record to 15 won and 4 lost for a percentage of .826. Red Lucas of Cincinnati and Burleigh Grimes of Pittsburgh are tied in shutouts, each with four, while Grimes sets the pace for both major leagues in victories with 20.

Willie Sherdel of St. Louis is next to Benton in averages, with 15 and 6 for .714, followed by Fred Fitzsimmons of New York, with 14 and 6 for .700. Lucas is next, with 11 and 5 for .688, and Grover Alexander is fifth, with 13 and 6 for .684.

In team batting Pittsburgh still leads this week, with .305; the Cardinals, dropping to fifth place, are second, with .295, followed by the Giants at .292. The Cards top the list in fielding, with .975, followed by the Cubs and the Reds, who are tied for second, each with .973. Cincinnati now has 140 double plays, but the standing of the clubs proves that these alone will not win ball games.

Straight Left Arm Not Necessary

By Johnny Farrell

American Open Champion

"Dear Johnny Farrell: A friend of mine who is a good golfer has cautioned me to keep my left arm straight in the back swing as a means of getting more distance. I find that in attempting to straighten the left arm I develop a stiffness of swing that is not desirable. Is it meant that the arm should be literally straight?

"Steve Hadley.

"Salisbury Plains."

It is amusing how many thousands are being bothered by the fallacy of the straight left arm in golf. Any attempt to keep the arm straight, and by straight I mean just that, is certainly tempting trouble.

I do not know when and how the straight left propaganda started but certain it is that it has caused more muckief among those learning the game than perhaps any one other thing.

It may be possible that its first advocate saw some tremendous hitter among the amateurs or professionals with a straight left arm at the top of his swing and concluded that there lay the secret of long controlled hitting.

LET to its own development the left arm, after being pushed back through the years gradually straightens as its owner reaches up and out at the top of his swing. This is an unconscious and a natural development, but to attempt to straighten the left consciously can have no beneficial result. On the contrary, it will produce, as in the case of Steve Hadley, a hampering stiffness.

Some great golfers, notably Harry Vardon, still swing with a very noticeable bend to the left arm, even after years of constant play. In the case of the illustrious Vardon it shows that he always was content to play well within himself that he did not deliberately cultivate extra length and could never re pointed out as a slugger.

Harry's forte was control and he loved to play all of his shots in comfort, whether with wood or with steel.

As I pointed out the other day the tendency among the rising generation of golfers is to kill the pill on all occasions.

STRIVING for a straight left perhaps has encouraged this slugging, for surely it teaches a man to encourage a back swing longer than is good for him.

Deliberately to court a straight left is inviting difficulties. Starting the clubhead on the inside path ney with the left hand is desirable, particularly for those who have a tendency to lift the club up at the start instead of pushing it back through the arch as they pivot.

This picking up of the club is one of the prevalent errors among golfers. It results in one half a back swing and causes the clubhead to be brought down on top of the ball and slicing it into the air like a pitch.

TWO BIG GAELIC GAMES SLATED

The Shells Athletic Association will stage two important football games tomorrow afternoon at Columbus Park, South Boston.

The initial event, which gets away at 2:30, is a junior league tilt between the Tipperary and Galtee Hibernia and as both teams have a chance to win this year's championship, a real battle for honors will take place.

Both elevens are well known to Gaelic fans and a large crowd is expected when the teams line up for the kickoff.

Galway has a lead over the junior leaguers and is a favorite to win. Michael Darcy, president of the league, will throw in the ball to start the game.

Welby and his men have only suffered two defeats in the past two years and as a result are favorites to defeat Roscommon.

Gene Tunney's Own Story—Start It on These Pages—Monday

From shipping clerk to millionaire.

From "Devil Dog" to world's champion.

From Washington Sq. to Park Ave.

From Police Gazette to Social Register.

From the "gang" to the "400."

In short—Alger out-Algered.

That's a brief synopsis of the life of Gene Tunney, WRITTEN BY THE RETIRED CHAMPION, HIMSELF, which will start on these pages Monday.

Nobody can afford to miss this interesting, thrilling and truthful autobiography of this most unusual of athletes.

And few, if any, will.

For nothing appeals more to the public at large than a narrative that tells of an individual who overcomes many obstacles to rise from obscurity to fame and from poverty to riches, and that's what Tunney's own story, of necessity, does nothing else but.

Starting from the time he first saw the light of day in a modest Greenwich Village home some 30 years ago, Gene recounts every incident of importance in his colorful career in this autobiography, which will be published exclusively in the Boston Evening American in twelve chapters, the first on Monday and the succeeding ones, each more interesting than the one previous, following three times a week—on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

How he spent his childhood days on the sidewalks of New York.

How he spent his youth as a shipping clerk.

How he decided upon a ring career.

How he won the light heavyweight championship of the A. E. F.

How he won the light heavyweight and later the heavyweight championship of the world.

How he amassed riches.

How he improved himself intellectually to such an extent that he is able to travel in the best society and give college lectures on Shakesperean literature.

And, most important of all since all the world loves a lover, how he won the fair hand of Polly Lauder, $50,000,000 heiress.

All this and more highlights of his remarkable career which have hitherfore never been told will Tunney reveal in this first and only accurate story of his life ever printed.

SYRIAN BOY, NOW BOSTON CLERGYMAN

Church Social Gospel

(From Federal Council of Churches Bulletin)

WHEN churches begin to deal with "social" questions, fears and misgivings are often expressed lest something is being substituted for the gospel of a personal relationship to Christ. If the fears were justified, they would be serious indeed. Doubtless there are some who vaguely hope to build the Kingdom of God in society without building it in the human heart, but such a view is poles away from that of the socially-minded leaders in our churches today.

What discerning prophets of the social meaning of the Gospel are seeking is not to make less of faith in Christ, but more. They are seeking to win for Christ a greater lordship. They would enthrone Him over the total life of men, not simply over parts of it. They are urging that Christ is to be the master of men, not only in their relationships within the church and the family, but also in the factory, the marketplace, the city hall and the council table of the nations.

Martha Lee's Chat

No matter what the season, cake making we have always with us. And usually by the same old recipes. I know quite a number of women who use the same two or three recipes year in and year out with never a thought of change. There are so many hundred delectable cake mixtures, however, that there is really no reason why we shouldn't give our family the benefit of a little variety.

For instance, try this simple but perfectly delicious upside-down gingercake.

Upside-Down Gingercake—Peel, core and slice 4 tart apples and mix with a half cup sugar and 4 tbsp. lemon juice. Place in a buttered baking pan. Bake in a hot oven (450 F.) about fifteen minutes.

Meanwhile mix a gingerbread batter thusly: Mix and sift together 2 cup flour, ¾ cup sugar, ½ tsp. salt, 1 tsp. soda, ½ tsp. baking powder, 1 tsp. ginger, ½ tsp. nutmeg, ½ tsp. cinnamon. Beat up ½ cup sour milk and add ¾ cup molasses and if desired, a beaten egg yolk or whole egg.

Pour these liquids into the dry ingredients. Mix well and beat in 1½ tbsps. melted butter. Pour this over the apple mixture and bake in a slow oven (325 F.) for forty-five minutes.

Or this delicious company cake:

Company Cake—Bake your favorite sponge cake, enough to fill a good sized shoe-string pan, as this is a one-layer cake. When cold spread with the following cherry mixture which may be made from either fresh or canned cherries. Put a quart of them, add 2 cupfuls of sugar and let stand awhile, then boil for 15 minutes.

Press the juice out when cool and use for dissolving the gelatine. Being half a cupful of the cherry juice and half a cupful of water to a boil and pour over 2 tbsps. of granulated gelatine which have first been softened in one-quarter of a cupful of cold water. Stir in the cherry pulp and spread on the cake.

Cover with one cupful of thick cream, whipped, to which have been added one tbsp. of powdered sugar and half tsp. of almond extract. Red confectioners' sugar may be sprinkled on the cream for a touch of color. Cut in squares for serving.

And here is a chocolate layer cake with a little unusual flavor given by a sprinkling of grated orange peel.

Chocolate Layer Cake—1-2 c. shortening, 1 c. sugar, 1 egg, 1 c. milk, 2 cups flour, 4 tsp. baking powder, ¼ tsp. salt, 1 tsp. vanilla extract.

Cream shortening; add sugar gradually; beat well; add entire egg; one-half the milk and mix well; add one-half the flour, which has been sifted with the baking powder; add remainder of milk, then remainder of flour and flavoring; beat after each addition. Bake in greased layer cake tins in moderate oven 15 to 20 minutes.

Chocolate Filling—Melt 2 squares unsweetened chocolate, ¼ tsp. grated orange peel.

To sugar add boiling water slowly to make a smooth paste; add vanilla, melted chocolate and orange peel. Spread between layers and on top of cake.

And while the maple sugar season is on don't overlook this Maple Nut Cake.

Maple Nut Cake—1-2 c. shortening, 1 c. light brown sugar, 2 eggs, 1 tsp. vanilla extract, 1 c. chopped nutmeats—preferably pecans, ½ c. milk, 1¼ c. flour, ¼ tsp. salt, 2 tsp. baking powder.

Cream shortening, add sugar, egg yolks, flavoring and milk and beat well; add dry ingredients, which have been sifted together, and add chopped nuts; mix in beaten egg whites. Bake in greased loaf pan in moderate oven 325 to 350 minutes. Cover top with maple icing. While still soft sprinkle with chopped nuts.

Feather Coconut Cake—1½ c. flour, 4 tsp. baking powder, 1 egg, 1 tsp. lemon extract, ½ c. sugar, 2 tbsps. melted shortening, ¼ c. milk, ½ c. fresh grated coconut.

Sift flour, sugar and baking powder. Add shortening and beaten egg to milk and add to dry ingredients. Mix well, add flavoring and coconut and bake in greased loaf tin in moderate oven 25 to 45 minutes. Sprinkle with powdered sugar, or ice with white icing, with grated cocoanut sprinkled on top.

You can purchase the grated cocoanut already put up in a convenient tin, you know.

ONCE-OVERS

By J. J. MUNDY.

MAYBE you don't get angry in your home and "tear things up"—but there are worse things than that.

You may be a nagger, finding fault with many things, and this is worse than having a real fight and settling back into a congenial routine afterward.

The most aggravating person is the one who is full of little thrusts.

Than, if there be retaliation from other members of the household, it means that disturbed conditions continue most of the time in the home.

Often the man who will overlook petty annoyances at the shop or office is most easily irritated over something displeasing to him is done by a member of his family.

If the same effort to keep things smoothly running at the office, were made at home, there would be happier homes.

It is unfortunate that often the man who is most congenial among those with whom he works is the greatest bore in his own home.

Usually the man who raises the least disturbance at his work causes the most uneasiness in his home.

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

BY HELEN ROWLAND

THE greatest national figure in this country today is the Installment Collector!

We are a "dollar-down-and-a-dollar-when-you-catch-me" nation! We are all living on the "first payment" plan!

The fact that a man drives an imported car and a woman wears sables and real pearls is not a sign that they have a lot of money. It's a sign that they OWE a lot of money!

"Ah, take the cash and let the credit go!" said old Omar. But, nowadays, we take all the credit we can get, and trust to chance or the Lord to send the cash.

* * *

"Charge It!" is the national slogan, and "Try to get It!" the national war-cry.

Lots of people are sitting on antique chairs that don't belong to them, eating food that isn't paid for, off dishes that never will be paid for, and upstanding people who don't owe as much as they do.

* * *

If we can just make the "first payment" on the car, the bungalow, the radio, or the engagement ring, we think we've GOT it; and we never feel that we are running into debt as long as our credit at the gasoline station holds out.

* * *

We even make love, start a business career, and get married on the "first payment" theory. If a man and a girl can pay for the license, put across a display wedding and splurge on the honeymoon trip, the marriage is called a "success." They think they've "paid the price" just by showing up at the church and saying a few words at the altar.

* * *

They soon find marriage is not a pay-as-you-enter" affair, but a "pay-as-you-exit" institution. And it won't "GO" unless you keep up the daily installments of consideration, love, understanding and self-sacrifice. Marriage is no summer bargain sale.

* * *

These carefree adventurers who rush into matrimony on the strength of a momentary impulse or a temporary sex-attraction soon find that the engine of love has gone dead. It takes a LOT of love, a LOT of compatibility, a LOT of forbearance—and THEN some, to keep a marriage from stalling after the first defiance and romance have worn off.

Success in love, in business, in work, or in life is not a fluke, a chance or a gamble. You don't "win" it—you EARN it; and sooner or later you've got to make your daily payments. FATE is an inexorable installment collector!

MILLIONS ARE PAID TO TWO INVENTORS

By FRANK H. MELOON
Financial Editor

We read a lot of stories about how much better paglliets are paid in these days of Tex Rickard and other well known promoters than they were when "John L." the Roxbury, "Strong Boy," battered his way to fame. Well, a lot of classes of people are better paid nowadays than then. Take inventors, for example.

Baltzar von Platen Col. F. E. Smith

Over two million dollars was paid for the American rights to the class room invention of two Swedish students who recently developed a noiseless automatic refrigerator that freezes by heat and without the use of motor power of any kind, it was disclosed by Col. Frank E. Smith, president of Servel, Inc. The achievement has been the aim of scientists for more than a century. Price paid for the rights to their invention was probably the greatest ever paid for a class room idea.

The students are Carl Munters and Baltzar von Platen who have been in this country only a few months. According to Col. Smith the inspiration for their refrigerating device came one night while they were lounging in a room at the fraternity house at Stockholm, speculating on the possibilities of cooling beverages without distilling them with ice. The idea for a refrigerating system which would function physio-chemically and without machinery followed. A year's laboratory experimentation produced the method.

President Jere A. Downs of the Boston Stock Exchange, of Hayden, Stone & Co., is on his high seas aboard the Homeric on a route for Europe. Today. Only yesterday I was talking with him in our Boston office, and he was attending to business as usual, although I intended to bring him back to the office in my absence by at the noise hour the moon is full. President Downs is going to visit England, France and Switzerland. He does not expect to return to Boston before Sept. 1.

Photographers, looking for cool spots during the heat wave, frequently go to refrigerating plants. Roland Holmes, photographer in charge of one of a number of industrial plants right here in Boston, brings Roland Holmes, son of the Boston Ice Co. was my guide when I made the discovery. No plant employed by Boston ice men for cooling purposes, so far as we are concerned, and ever will be, has been kept in a more scrupulously clean condition. This is largely because of the enormous demand for ice for refrigerating and cooling on 24 hours a day, eight days in Boston.

Automobile companies are keeping out of politics. Not one of the automobile companies has come out to express their preference for Hoover or Smith. Not one of them has even whined, complaining that they didn't support Herbert Hoover. "We are not in politics," they say, "and we intend to remain so." Which is wise. We have a right to expect automobile companies, which we have enjoyed for just four years, to

PORTION OF NEW NORTH STATION OPENS MONDAY

The central portion of the new North station, including the beautiful waiting-room and concourse, will be opened to the public Monday after over months of record-breaking achievements in construction by the Boston & Maine railroad.

The formal dedication will take place in the fall when the entire station is completed, as well as the new Causeway approach. In the meantime the structure will gradually assume its permanent form to meet the needs of 25,000,000 commuters and travelers yearly.

The waiting-room, lined in marble and surmounting by balconies, is the dominant interior feature, extending the full height of the station, 75 feet long, and flanked at either end by entrance passageways. There is also a middle passageway and exit passage is 40 feet wide.

It was the personal theme that the Grand Central terminal in New York, and it is equipped with the most modern of conveniences for the traveling public.

The great concourse, also marble lined, is 400 feet long and 64 feet wide and affords free movement for the daily rush hour throngs. Easy access to elevated trains is provided.

Late Sunday night workmen will remove the high board walls which, with girders, cross beams, platforms and lesser staglings have formed a chrysalis, within which the new waiting room and auxiliary facilities were taking on impressive form. Other units of the new station will be thrown open from time to time and President Hannaher expects the entire new station to the railheads to be ready by November 1.

What has been accomplished thus far, in record-breaking time, according to construction engineers, and what will be accomplished in the future, is without interruption of passenger traffic, although 90,000 persons and 360 trains go in and out of the terminal each day.

The main station building extends from Haverhill st., a distance of 425 feet along Causeway st. toward Nashua st., leaving 118 feet of frontage at the corner for a restaurant, taxi-stand and proposed hotel.

The facade, which will be in buff brick with stone trim, is as yet uncompleted and the steel skeleton of the upper sections can also be seen. The steering arena, to seat 6,000, is due to be finished November 15. The North Station Industrial Building at Causeway and Beverly sts., is also under construction. Construction by the city of a broad thoroughfare along Nashua st. connecting with the Northern Artery will complete the setting.
